

The first Youth As Researchers Teams have been selected

We thank you all for your patience while we have worked through the huge number of applications. But we are pleased to announce that next week we will start sending out the first round of offers to participate in research teams. The first round covers 20 teams. There will be at least one additional round to come a little later. Youth selected for the teams will receive an email with instructions on how to confirm their place in the team. We understand that many of you will now have other plans and this is OK! We appreciate your interest in the program and welcome you to participate in any way you can now or later.

What if I don't get an Offer?

This is the first round offer. There will be subsequent rounds and there will be offers for alternative opportunities. We also welcome your ideas on how we can create additional opportunities.

Deadline

We request that you respond by Sunday 11 October 2020. If you miss the deadline, your place may be offered to another young person.

Accepting your Offer

Your email will include a link to a google form. This form is your acceptance of the offer and commitment to the program.

General Update

This week we held the first YAR Steering Committee Meeting with five young people selected to guide the YAR initiative. We will send a newsletter to introduce you to the Steering Committee. A Global Evaluation team has been set up and has already started their work. The YAR Training Platform is ready and will be tested next week. So a lot of progress has been made and the next step is to start getting you all involved!

The YAR website is coming soon!
